from the Baron & Baroness

Unto the populace of fair Aneala do Lachlahn and Jane send greetings,

Now that the Championship tournaments are upon us, we recall once more the ideals upon which our society is founded - chivalry, creativity, and above all, courtesy. These are the goals for which we strive, the values we seek to demonstrate, the qualities we prize most highly, not only in our Champions, but in every member of our populace.

We are likewise minded at this time to call upon our noble and gentle friends to observe those of their fellows who exemplify these ideals, and to make known to us those you believe deserving of recognition for their efforts - who have impressed you with their chivalry, inspired you with their creativity, and welcomed you with their courtesy.

We have presently at our disposal the services of a most skilful cartographer in the person of Lady Gabrielle of the Marshes, of Politarchopolis. She has expressed a wish of creating a map of Aneala, and surely none who has seen the work of her hands could refuse such a handsome offer. The map is intended to display the lands of the Barony, and the location within them of members of the populace.

To this end, good gentles, We wish to distribute amongst you a census form, which you shall find included in this issue of The Vine. Her Excellency shall also be at Baronial training each Sunday for those of you wishing to obtain a paper copy of the form.

If you wish to have your name, device and manor shown on the map, please fill in the census form and return it to Her Excellency, either on paper or by electronic messenger. She would like to have the census completed by the evening of Bal d'Aneala (October 27th), but She will still accept forms before and after the event.

We do most heartily commend this enterprise, and do thank you all for your attention to this matter.

We remain

Yours in service,

Lachlahn Jane
Baron Baroness

from the Seneschal

Greetings and salutations, gentle cousins, from Sir Kane Greymane.

As seneschal I have very little to say this month except thank you for being part of this brightly-shining Barony.

We have a page full of events. Regular activities are well run and well attended. The stewards have been doing exceptionally; events are well run and make a fair profit. Council, for the second month in a row, is over in less than 2 hours and in fact just over 90 minutes – and we always have chocolate!

Many of the projects in the council minutes are nearly completed and new improvements to Aneala are being discussed.

Membership numbers are healthy, albeit we could always use more members.

The officers are all doing more than their jobs demand, reports are in on time and complete. Officers are working on training up deputies for a smooth transition, maintaining the drive and motivation within the group.

It's exciting to watch Aneala grow and change.

See you all at The Bal.

Kane

KANE GREYDANE

Seneschal of Aneala

from the Champion of Aneala

Farewell and salutations from Sir Kane Greymane Champion of Aneala.

Gentle cousins, the time of the Anealan Championship weekend is upon us. Who will be the next Champion of Aneala?

The armoured combative arts are not so much done as they once were, and this I feel is a sadness. I encourage all of you to look to what you can do to promote the armoured combat of the SCA in your area. Armoured combat may not be the be all and end all of SCA life, but it certainly is the centre of activity. The tourney is the excuse for us to come together and get medieval. Wars are fun ways to get exercise and hang out with our friends.

I look forward to seeing you at the next combative event, be it a Tourney, a War or a Pas d'Arms.

Kind Regards

KANE GREYDANE

Champion of Aneala

[Chronicler: Unfortunately, production delays prevented this issue of The Vine from appearing until after Championship.]

Officers Needed

The Barony is always looking for people who are willing to contribute some of their time and energy to the service of all.

SENESCHAL

I leave the post of Seneschal as my life pulls me in different directions. I find being Seneschal fun and very interesting. Training is available, as is support, mentoring and assistance with reports. I can't recommend the position strongly enough to you all.

Do you love the Barony of Aneala?

Are you over 18 yrs of age and a sustaining member of the SCA?

Do you know the ways of the SCA?

Are you computer literate?

Do you have time to attend the events and meetings of Aneala?

Then Aneala needs you.

Applications are required in writing, preferably by e-mail. Send to seneschal@sca.org.au with a copy to seneschal@aneala.sca.org.au. Please outline your SCA history, any relevant mundane experience and what you hope to achieve in the office.

Consideration will be given to all applicants. Closing date is Anealan Council the 19th of October.

Kane Greymane, Seneschal

REEVE

I would like to hand on the office of Baronial Reeve for MidSummer's feast, and to that end will be looking for a replacement to take on these duties. Reeve is not a hard office if you know how to read a bank statement and use a calculator. If you would be interested just drop me an email and I could discuss the duties of the office in further detail.

Senora Catalina De Gata, Reeve

Deputy Constable

The Office of Constable is responsible for signing-in people at events, and for collecting site fees. The Constable also collects property lost at events.

Wistress Khianwen ní Dhiarmada, Constable

A Plea for Help

Milady Angela, who has newly joined our happy band, is also a member of Trio Grosso, which, as some of you will know, is a long-running Early Music group in Perth, and one with which we in Aneala have shared many happy times over the last score of years.

She has decided to compile a history of Trio Grosso, and, as part of this effort, she asks all the populace of Aneals for any pictures they have of this excellent group.

If any gentles reading this have pictures of Trio Grosso, please contact Milady Angela at:

guild rankings. Please let me know if you will be entering this competition as the food will be part of the supper at the Bal.

An Opportunity!

Are you looking for something more in the SCF?

Are you interested in creating things?

Have you considered becoming an Arts and Sciences Minister?

The Arts and Sciences office is not especially difficult or demanding. You will be closely involved with everyone who is working on arts and sciences projects (almost everyone in the SCF at some point in time) and with Baronial A&S projects. You get your name in The Vine, and a shiny (almost) new officer's medallion.

If you become Anzala's new A&S Minister you will be expected to:

Be a member

Report to the Lochae A&S Minister, the Anzalan Seneschal and the Baron and Baroness every three months. This is quite simple and pro-forma reports are available.

Arrange A&S competitions throughout the year.

Attend council regularly so you know what is going on and what events you might need to organise A&S activities at.

Keep an eye on the various regular A&S activities that are already happening so that you can report on them.

In addition, you may wish to run workshops, regular classes, or a weekend of classes on a specific topic or a vast array of topics; you might want to put together an A&S newsletter or add to the articles on the Anzalan website; or you might have other new and interesting ideas for encouraging the arts and sciences in Anzala.

If you think you might have an interest in this office please ask me about it or speak to the Seneschal or the Baron and Baroness. You can also check out the A&S Minister's Page on the Lochae website for more information about the office.!

Arts & Sciences Minister

Get to know your Officers

Continuing our series on the Officers of the Barony, this month we feature Baroness Jane

Jane Grenville...

Jane was born in the south of England in 1542, the year King Henry VIII beheaded his fifth wife, Katherine Howard. During the turbulent years of Bloody Mary's reign, her parents, who were of the reformed faith, decided it would be prudent to send Jane abroad to be educated at the far-flung but highly sophisticated court of Politarchopolis, in what was then the Principality of Loehae.

There Jane learned many of the skills and arts that befitted a lady of her rank, and also some that many thought highly unsuitable for a lady of her rank, namely the arts of defence. It was here also that her life-long love of theatre and music was firmly established.

During the much more settled years of the reign of Elizabeth, Jane returned to England for a brief sojourn, and there became reacquainted with the culture and fashions of her motherland. She was particularly inspired by Good Queen Bess herself, whom she had the honour of meeting once. With a renewed appreciation of elegance, wit and pageantry, Jane returned to Loehae, which had become her home.

Shortly after her return, Jane travelled to the Barony of Anzala, where, it was felt, her prospects of making a good marriage were favourable. While in Anzala, Jane became acquainted with the court of Their Excellencies, Crag and Morwenna, and honed her skills as a poet. It was here that she befriended Jehan de Benne, whom she later appointed as her tutor, having seen a need to continue with her studies.

These days, Jane prides herself upon being a good wife, and upon honouring her family by having made a good marriage. She still enjoys many of the pursuits she favoured in her youth, such as music, poetry, theatre and fencing. She is eager to uphold the creative and intellectual life of Anzala's Baronial court, and loves the company of poets, scholars, musicians and minstrels. Her most favoured means to while away an evening is to preside over a sumptuous feast, where the music is lively, the company merry, and the witty conversation flows like wine.

...and her alter ego, Sarah.

So, who is Sarah, the woman behind the Baroness?

I started playing SCA when I was a bright-eyed and innocent university student, just over 11 years ago in Politarchopolis. I spent my first couple of years playing dance music with the Politarchopolan Musicians' Guild, while endeavouring to learn to sew well enough to make my own garb.

Since then, I have graduated from university (twice), moved from Canberra to Perth, and concluded that teaching was definitely not my preferred career. I am now happily employed as a Supertext captioner with Red Bee Media Australia, and very happily engaged to Jean-Paul, whom I met five years ago at the first Loehae coronation.

My interest in the SCA stems from my enduring love of history, especially the Wars of the Roses and the Tudor/Elizabethan period. Having been starved of a comprehensive historical education at school, I eagerly took up the study of medieval history at university. One day I hope to be able to write historical fiction, but much more study shall be done before this happens...

Like Jane, I find great enjoyment in music and theatre, and my dabbling in both goes back many years. I also recently uncovered a latent ability to write reasonably good poetry. As far as the skills befitting a lady are concerned, I am an enthusiastic cook, and I have at long last learned my way around a sewing machine, to the point where I can say with some conviction that I prefer sewing by hand.

Of Worldly and Most Worthy Pleasures

Good gentles all, pray gather to this feast
Of worldly and most worthy pleasures spent,
With comp'ny clad in silks and fine batiste,
And wealth of pastimes to all hearts content.
Here be found all manner of merriment:
Such delicacies most cunningly wrought!
'Midst conversations rich with wit besprent,
In dance and music oft we take our sport,
While courtesy doth ever dietate our comport.

Abundant joy in revels though we find,
'Tis not alone the source of our delight;
To chivalry our hearts be well inclined,
As on the field of combat shows aright.
We raise our swords in reverence, ne'er in spite,
And inspiration from our consorts gain –
We look to them, our courage to ignite,
And fight for them, their honour to maintain,
That “all for love” be now and always our refrain.

Fine artisans we hold in high esteem-
Full meet and laudable their labours show,
And payeth goodly homage to The Dream.
To these, our rich refinements do we owe,
And on them highest favour we bestow
For sundry entertainments fitly made
With saucily tripping innuendo.
We celebrate these talents well displayed
In all manner of things most splendidly arrayed.

To service is our greatest tribute bound –
If it is wanting, naught shall be attained!
Without it, all our feats should run aground
And values we profess would be but feigned.
To this sweet purpose all our works enchained:
That all may know the joy that we create,
And to such end, we giveth unrestrained,
Our efforts willingly we demonstrate,
For never shall our enthusiasm abate!

Of Worldly and Most Worthy Pleasures

Let none dare ask now why we love The Game!
'Tis plain enough for all with wits to see.
Full multitudes of virtues can we name,
Generous grace and witty repartee,
Our conduct ever strives for courtesy;
Appearance, word and deed shall all assent,
And players all, we readily agree:
Upon this stage and with this compn'y pent,
Are all our worldly and most worthy pleasures spent.

Jane Grenville

From the Chronicler: A Competition

Just because I can, I'm running a competition.

It's going to be one of those old favourites, a "Caption this picture" competition.

The cleverest entry (as judged by the Chronicler) received by same before the end of November will win a prize, consisting of a gift voucher, to a usable value, at one of the larger bookstore chains.

What are the rules? Keep it clean. Innuendo is probably safe, but remember, I have to be able to print it in this family-friendly newsletter. That's about it, really. Oh, and the Chronicler's decision is final, and no discussion will be entered into.

To start you off in the right frame-of-mind (if there is such a thing) here's a caption I "prepared earlier".

"Sir Kane was never able to look at his helmet in the same way again".

So get those entries rolling in!

Disclaimer: Neither the Barony of Aneala nor the SCA endorses or sponsors this competition.

AN ITALIAN CARNIVALE

Come join in the Masked street fair, and enjoy dancing, games and general frivolity incognito. (Did I mention MASKS?) Attendance at a carnivale called for ALL to wear masks so that rank and identity could be hidden from all (just think of the mischief you can get up to wearing a MASK). Noble folk especially hid their identity so they could relax and enjoy themselves.

The event opens at 5pm, continuing until 10pm, when we must all scatter afore the Guard takes our revels to the cells.

Pavilions will be set up; however, you will need to bring your own seating, and, as always, something to eat off and drink out of. Hmm ... in summer, liquid to drink is also good.

If you wish to raise your personal pavilion or banner you can either be on site from 3:30pm to raise it yourself, or give it Mistress Muirghein (north of the river) or Lady Sorcha (south of the river) BEFORE the day. If you choose to raise your pavilion yourself be aware that the stewarding team will tell you where you can put it.

Note that NO pavilions or banners may be raised after 4:45pm

Also note that we will not have access to the hall proper until 5pm.
