Baronial Missive

From Leonie, Baroness of Aneala, to the populace of Aneala, greetings.

Baron Dameon has arrived at Pennsic, taking some of our wet weather with him, so this month's missive is mine alone.

This past month, we have attended two very different but equally enjoyable events. First was Abertridwr's Heraldic Melee. Four teams fought in the tourneys, and well done to the Anealan team of Sir Nathan Blacktower, Lord Konrad Hildebrand, Lord Richard Ferrowre and Baron Dameon, who won the Melee, and also the best heraldic display.

Then followed the Anealan Midwinter feast. Everyone I spoke to had a great time: it was a wonderful feast - delicious food, great company, dancing, games and music. Thanks to Lord Best Pickel Amberger for successfully stewarding his first event, and to Mistress Branwen and her team for such wonderful, and plentiful, food. We gave two baronial awards. Congratulations to Lord Richard Ferrowre, who was made a member of the Order of the Valiant Swans of Aneala, and to Lady Avalon of the Isles, who was made a member of the Order of the Demi Sun.

Upcoming events to put in your calendar:

Malazgirt combat archery tourney, stewarded by Master Kilic, will take place at Wandi on 21 August, starting at midday.

The Baroness's Fighter Auction, stewarded by me, will take place on Saturday 3 September at Mason's Landing in Cannington. The theme this year will be an inspiring heraldic charge. It doesn't have to be a part of your device, although of course it can be. You should be prepared to tell the assembled populace on the day what it is, and why it inspires you. There will be an open Arts and Sciences competition, your penultimate chance to compete in this year's competition.

Baronial Missive

Anealan Championship weekend, stewarded by Lady Lucia delli Fenice, will be on the long weekend of 24-26 September, at Ern Halliday Recreation Centre. The Barony's new champions of the sword, the bow, the rapier and the arts and sciences will be chosen and the retiring champions honoured, after their final duties in running the various competitions.

Bal d'Aneala: Oktoberfest on 29 October, stewarded by Lord Wolfgang Germanicus, at St Matthews Hall, Guildford. Come along to help us chose the next Bard of Aneala, and enjoy much dancing and good food.

Also of interest to our armoured fighters:

Abertridwr Advanced armoured training school, 10-11 September, stewarded by Lord Galen Wulfric.

War Cloak for Rowany Festival

Those of you who attended Rowany Festival in the last two years will have seen the War Cloak presented to one chosen by the Crown as the Hero of the War. Each year, a different Barony produces the cloak, and for next festival it is the turn of Aneala. I would like to start discussing ideas for a cloak style and decoration, with the aim to finalise the design by Anealan Championship. I hope this will be a joint project with workshops when we can work together on the cloak, as well as take away pieces to work on at home or events. Send me ideas, or ideally come and discuss it in person at arts and sciences days.

Until next time

Yours in service

Leonie
