Food:

Breakfast will be supplied.

Saturday Starting 4 pm

Saturday night meal will be in the style of a Harvestfest with Market stalls. Families, and communities would gather for these festivals, setting out long trestle tables with benches to accommodate guests. People ate fresh-baked bread, butter, cheeses and sweet desserts and nuts. Vats of mead, ale and wine were drunk in honour of the gods, local chiefs, warlords, successful raiders and newlyweds.

There will be food served at certain places to give the illusion of buying food at a street market, As the food will be spread out and served it should help with any covid restrictions.

There can be singers and poets, who would recite sagas and poems about the long history of the Viking people. Musicians would get people dancing. Games of skill, and wrestling ball games kept the warriors and young boys active.

Sunday night will be a revel, closer to a ball than a regular feast with a significant focus on dancing. For people not dancing there will be tables for games.

Entertainment from the populace will be encouraged.
A generous amount of finger food will be served throughout the evening.

Comments re Market Food - Served earlier than normal to ensure we make the most of the available light.
