Baronial Missive

Unto our well-beloved populace of Aneala do Baron Lachlahn and Baroness Jane send greetings.

As we reflect upon the glories of the Barony and give most heartfelt thanks to those whose efforts allowed us to celebrate Aneala's past twenty years in fine style, we are recalled with no small sadness to this present time of troubles that follows hard upon our time of joy.

Some years ago, good King Harry of England did leave his lands to do battle with the King of France over his ancestral claim to the French crown, leaving his beauteous and noble Queen, Katherine, as regent in his absence. In like manner, His Excellency shall soon set forth from his lands to take up arms over a disputed crown - not against a foreign foe abroad, but against those within the realm of Lochac who would challenge the true Kingship.

For her part, Her Excellency, in whose care the Barony shall be left, commends and wishes well all those who go to join this battle, for the preservation of her husband and the future welfare of Aneala are in their hands.

These are dark times, gentle friends, but with courage we shall weather the storms of civil unrest, and show the Known World that Aneala holds steadfast in her loyalty to the true Crown of Lochac.

Yours in service,

Lachlahn — Baron

Jane — Baroness
