Baronial Missive

There are events in history of which we all know such as the battle of Bosworth, war of the roses and the battle of Agincourt.

There are events of a personal nature which we cherish forever, wedding days, squiring, investitures etc.

Then there are events which we are blessed enough to be able to share with others, events which last not only in one memory but as remembered by all present, to be shared, relived and cherished.

This past Month did see the last Rowany festival on Crossroads, My first Festival as Baron of Aneala.

The charge of Aneala against the two Viking armies, parading with our banner singing "Where have all the Vikings gone?" …Taking the field for the heraldic melee's in glorious Azure and Argent.

These memories shall last not just with me, but with all who stood beside me and those watching. Those of you unable to travel rest assured that those who were there did you proud.

While away all of Lochac's Barons and Baronesses present met and compared notes. It became apparent as we compared notes what makes the populace of Aneala just so great.

At every event someone manages to amaze us with something they have done.

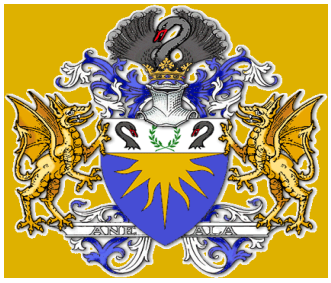
We are immeasurably proud to be the Baron and Baroness of Aneala.

Thou Rockest!

Yours in service,

Lachlahn — Baron

Jane — Baroness



From the Seneschal

Positive Regard

Positive regard, that's the key to almost everything we do. As a society that tries to recreate all the best parts of medieval life we need to look at the best parts of the human experience as well.

We, I am sure, would like to be given the benefit of the doubt, Positive regard says "he is doing his best, he must have thought he was doing the right thing", I wonder if he knows that's happening?

Positive regard is about not spreading rumours that bring fellow members and the SCA into disrepute. Positive regard requires that we do something about the rumour. Rhianwen and I were at a meeting (not SCA) and out of the blue people started telling us how so and so had done what in Aneala. These were completely incorrect stories but could only have come from within the SCA. They were quickly squashed.

I know we all like to get status with our friends by knowing something others don't. That few minutes of attention and vain glory will do damage to Aneala and the SCA for years.

If people are doing the wrong thing then I need to be contacted, as seneschal I have to investigate impropriety. It is my duty both as an officer and a Knight to defend both individuals and the Society.

I have been approached about an issue and when it was talked through would seem to be over 12 months old but the person brave enough to bring it to my attention had only recently heard about it.

If you're doing the wrong thing stop it this instant.

Women should be treated with positive regard, young people should be treated with positive regard, everyone should be treated with positive regard. A very good friend of mine once said "It's a privilege to be in the SCA if you can't behave you loose the privilege". I am sure you have all heard about the banishment at festival.

I encourage all of us to look at the stories we tell do they put the SCA or our friends in the SCA in a good light? Would you bring your friends and family to a club that has the stories you tell happening in them? How old is that story your about to tell? Positive regard would let a person make a mistake and learn from it, give room for people to change and grow.

The SCA is a great place, the range of positive stories are endless and far more uplifting. Be the hero of your own adventure.

Have fun; See you at an event soon.

Arts & Sciences

Bow Stand Forging Workshop

Nathan Blacktower will run a workshop for anyone who wishes to make a forged bow stand like the ones currently being used by himself, Catherine de Arc and Catalina da Gata. This will happen at our house from 11.00am on Saturday 12th May. The cost will be $5 to cover steel and gas for the forge. Bookings are required so we can get the right amount of steel.

Table Runner Workshop

I will be running a workshop to make new table runners in time for our Midwinter feast. This workshop will also take place at our house from 11.00 am on Saturday 12th May.

Everyone is welcome. The sewing will be very simple, the forging is beginner level, and the company will be agreeable so it should be a fun day for all.

Singing Returns

Lady Anneleyn, Bard of Aneala, wishes it known that singing will start on Monday nights in room G207 in the Social Sciences building at UWA from 7pm. All are welcome.

Upcoming Competitions

Midwinter - Tudor Items – Anything linked to the Tudor period may be entered. Their most Tudor Excellencies, the Baron and Baroness of Aneala, have advised that the winner of this competition will be well rewarded for their efforts.

Open Arts and Sciences - Enter anything and everything, get useful feedback, and show off your hard work. The judging format of these competitions allows very different objects to compete against each other. You may enter anything from armouring to costuming to embroidery to performance to food and you may enter more than one thing.

If you want any help in preparing for either of these competitions just ask me, it's really very simple.
