Baronial Missive

Unto the populace of fair Aneala do Lachlahn and Jane send greetings, trusting that this missive does find you in good health and cheer over these winter months.

It pleased us well to see many of you at the Midwinter feast lately held, at which the new Baronial coronets were inducted with due ceremony, touching the history of our folk and of those Barons and Baronesses who have gone before us. It was truly a magnificent evening, in which we savoured the fruits of the season, the talents of our artists and the congenial company of our well-beloved populace and diverse guests.

Now, as the days begin to lengthen, we are mindful that it will soon be time to choose new champions of Sword, Bow and Rapier. We are most heartened to see the advances being made in these arts. We encourage all who profess skill in their chosen fields and desire to see them continue in prosperity, to make yourselves known to us and declare your intent to strive for the mantle of Champion, for honour, glory and Aneala.

We remain
Yours in service,

Lachlahn Jane
Baron Baroness

from the Seneschal

Greetings and salutations, gentle cousins, from Kane Greymane,

Winter is coming to an end, and the busy fun time of July is over. Many thanks to Maithu Ruathe for Midwinter. 91 people attended; a fun event. Well done.

It's now time to think about camping and the Anealan Championship Weekend.

Those going to Balingup I know will have a great time. First impressions are very important; a friendly fun group is what people want to join, so let's show people we are the best game in town. Remember if you're going to the Carnival let Mistress Liduina know [see the flyer for contact details] so you can get your pass, else you will have to pay.

Council

I would encourage everyone to look at the council minutes in this issue. Many very interesting and exciting projects are under way. The most interesting is that Their Excellencies have given their support to a bid for July XLIII Lochac Investiture to be put together by Viscountess Rhianwen and Baroness Catherine.

WAMA Perth Medieval Fayre Committee

If you would like to be the SCA's representative on the Western Australian Medieval Alliance Fair Committee please contact me ASAP. The next meeting will be on Tuesday the 14th August. The meetings are held monthly and at this time of year last about 2 hours.

Report

- Progress with vendors and sponsors is going well.
- Date for next year's fair is Saturday the 5th of April 2008

Taz Entertainments have been engaged again this year to handle the marketing of the fayre. If you want a copy of the full minutes contact me at seneschal@aneala.sca.org.au

WAMA Medieval Convention

Report

The WAMA Medieval Convention committee has decided to run an event like SwanCon with a medieval theme (AD 600 to 1800) with multi-stream classes. It is planned to bring a Western Martial Arts instructor and a jewellery instructor from the eastern states to augment local instructors. If you want a copy of the full minutes contact me at seneschal@aneala.sca.org.au

WAMA AGM

The Western Australian Medieval Alliance Annual General Meeting will be held on the 4th of August 2007 at Banks Reserve Pavilion, Joel Tce, Mt Lawley, starting at 10.30. Meeting is at 11am. Market day from 10.30 am. Sausage sizzle at Midday. Close of trading 2pm. All membership will be due for renewal prior to the AGM. Membership is $2.00. All positions will be made vacant and WAMA is calling for nominations

I would strongly encourage all SCA members to attend this meeting, pay your $2 and have a say in what happens with the medieval community in WA. If any organization can organize land grants and a permanent medieval venue it will be the Alliance. Now is the time to help steer the way WAMA evolves.

From the Baron and Baroness

Unto the Artisans and Craftsmen of Aneala do We send greetings

Whereas it hath come to our attention on many occasions that there be many diverse and accomplished artists and artisans within the Barony, we, Lachlahn and Jane, Baron and Baroness of Aneala, do hereby invite all the aforementioned artists and artisans to approach us and seek commission for their works.

This offer of patronage we extend to all who demonstrate skill in the arts and sciences, be they Laurels, Guild members or independent practitioners; to which end we mean to make gifts of their works to those who shall be seen to be appropriate recipients of such gifts; and by these means shall recognition and appreciation be afforded to all those deserving of the same.

From the Champion

As we start to look at the Championship weekend I thought it might be useful to reiterate the format for the Championship list.

The Traditional Anealan Triple List is made up of three separate Lists.

The first List is Chivalric Weapon, which, in Aneala, means single-handed weapon and shield.

The second List is Two-Handed Weapons, and does not include Florentine (2 single-handed weapons). You will need hand protection for the two-handed list.

The third List is Open Weapon, but you can only use a given combination once in this list.

I would encourage anyone with an interest in armoured combat to enter this list. Being Champion of Aneala is a joy and a privilege and you get the best place to be in court and you get a great sword.

Also, we are moving to the Lochac standard list shields for this event. You can download a template here:

<http://www.else.net.nz/tmp/listshield.pdf>

It's time to drag your armour out, get some new stuff, polish the old and repaint your shield. If we want the gallery to watch us we need to look good.

War Sundays – Coming to a weekend near you!

War Sundays will be held, hook or by crook, on a convenient Sunday of every second month in place of regular training that weekend.

Its expected that the location of these wars will vary from time to time, moving amongst several suitable locations – depending on which group or individual decides to host them. The first of which will be held in September – two months after the war being held quite conveniently down in Boesenburg in July. :-)

Regular Wars will be ideal for encouraging team spirit and myth making and serve as a perfect milieu for inexperienced fighters to cut their teeth and experienced fighters to engage in a relatively no-pressure environment. And besides, archers get to have fun shooting us. :-)
This is an excellent opportunity for the incipient War League to get off the ground. We'll likely be having a variety of scenarios at each War Sunday including several rounds of short 15 minutes battles between the various 5-man League teams as well as larger battles and Agincourt runs.

War Sunday's will be relatively low key, minimal set-up events that run from 10am to 4pm. Bring your own food. Pull up, put your armour on and play. If you want to come along, set up your own pavilion and watch from the side-lines you are most welcome!

Yours in Service,

- Andre de Montsegur

Chronicler's Call

Good gentles,

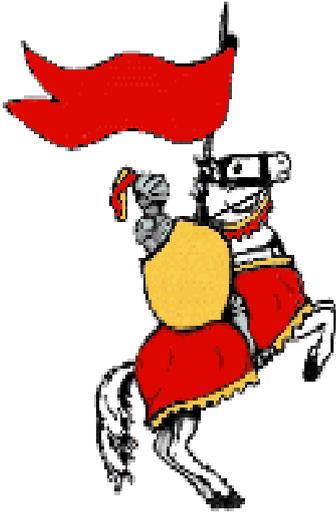

As the new Chronicler of Angala, I'd first like to express my appreciation for my two immediate predecessors, Lady Keridwen and Mistress Rhianwen. Lady Keridwen put many years of excellent work into The Vine, and has left a newsletter that looks wonderful. Mistress Rhianwen gets my thanks for all her help in "breaking me in", as it were.

Secondly, I'd like to point out that I don't get to all events, and that, even when I do, I don't get to see, or hear, everything. Nor do I normally take a camera. It follows, then, that I will be relying upon other people (that's you) to tell me about news and events (past, and future) that you want recorded.

This is another way of saying, of course, that The Vine only works if you tell me things.

Articles, art, editorials, book reviews, photos, recipes, etc are always welcome and encouraged. Anything to be published should include your name and a permission-to-publish slip.

Your servant,
de Saxby

Get to know your Officers

In what I hope to be a continuing series, I want to introduce you to the Gentles who serve this Barony. To inaugurate this, I'll grab the closest officer to hand, which happens to be me. Should the Fates so decree, others will follow.

From the library of Lord
Andre de Montsegur

My name in the SCA is David de Saxby. I've been playing for twenty years now, which would be frightening, were it not for the fact that it's the best fun that I've ever had in public. How did I join? Evelynne and I were attending the Northbridge Festival in February 1987 (an event now long lost in time) when we came upon an SCA demo, featuring such notables as Kane Greymane and Peter du Gant Noir, both of whom I already knew through the Grey Company. Evelynne & I thought that the SCA looked fun, so we sent off our memberships just in time to attend The Royal Visit that April. This was the event at which King William of the West elevated Steveg Stevegsson and Rhianwen ni Dhiarmida to the (very newly-created) rank of Baron & Baroness of Aneala. This is also known as The Night That We Set Fire To The King. (Ask around).

What have I done in the SCA? Having (as many of you have cause to regret) a ... let's just say tendency ... to pun, I was almost immediately recruited (dragooned?) by Kane as his deputy in the position of Abertridwr Herald. Of course, this was welcomed, if for no other reason than a Herald who didn't fight meant that Heralds who did fight (which was almost all of them) didn't have to herald, and could go back to hitting each other. A couple of years later Kane ascended to the lofty heights of Black Wing (Baronial) Herald, and I found myself as an officer for the first time. When Kane stepped down from Black Wing, I had somehow failed to learn my lesson, and took over his job again.

I've enjoyed dancing and cooking, fencing and archery, and showing off Evelynne's costumes. In the late eighties and early nineties, my Lady and I were regulars at dance demos, and, in the early to mid-nineties, I was fairly heavily involved in fencing, but, with the ban on fencing in 1996, my involvement in the SCA as a whole dropped off, and only picked up again in the last couple of years. My Lady and I attended Rowany Festival earlier this year (for the first time in eighteen years) which really re-lit our enthusiasm. As a result, I've now renewed my long-dormant membership, and, as you can see, I've taken on an office. I've also been helping out with the music. (A Joke: What do you call those people that hang around with musicians? Drummers.) I'm also hoping to get back into fencing before the century ends.

For those with an interest in such things, I even have a persona story:

"David de Saxby is a gentleman of the court of His Grace Richard, Duke of Gloucester, later King Richard III of England, in the period 1472 - 1485. On a mission abroad in August 1485, he missed the Battle of Bosworth, where Richard fell through base treachery, and its bloody aftermath (the reign of Henry Tudor, styled Henry VII).

Judging England (correctly) to be no healthy place for a supporter of the last of the Plantagenet kings, and lacking the stomach to make peace with (meaning "bend the knee to") the new King, he has since made the Duchy of Burgundy, whose Duchess is the late King's sister, his home.

Occasionally, his descendant, also David de Saxby, a resident of Elizabethan London in the middle-to-late 1500s, attends Society events in his stead."

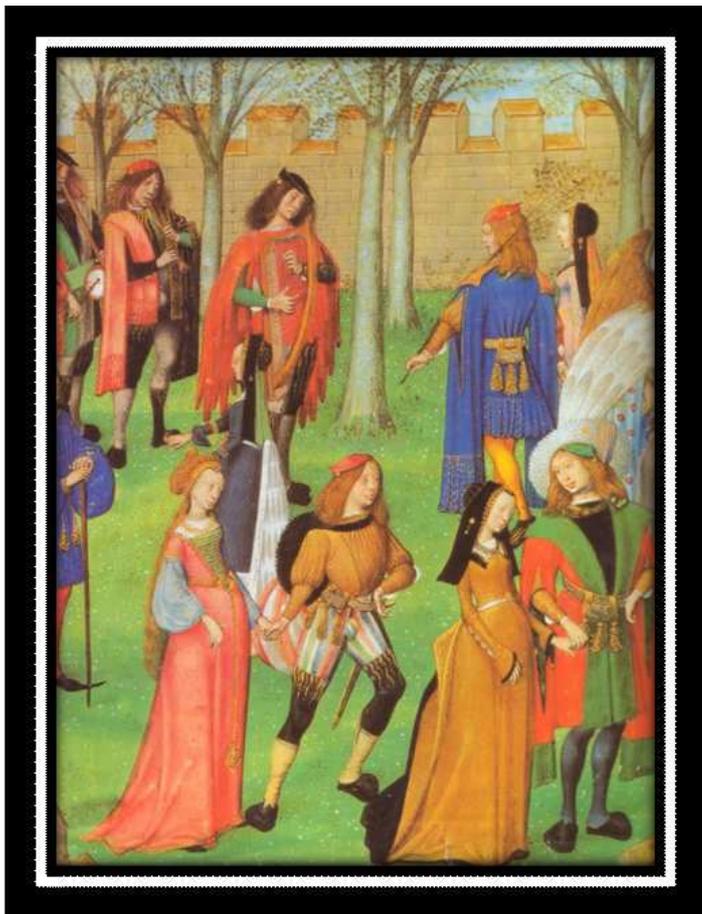

My arms, which I don't display anywhere near often enough, are:

"Gyronny argent and azure, a monster statant consisting of the body and head of a lion, issuant from its back a goat's head guardant, tailed of a serpent, Or, within a bordure counterchanged".

My monster was sufficiently novel to be mentioned in the second edition of the SCA's Pictorial Dictionary of Heraldry, and the device was one of a number from Aneala that caused a Crux Australis Herald to wonder if there was "something in the water over there".

Even more than this, I've decided that, after twenty years of no interest in armoured combat, I'm going to try it out. What does this mean? It means start saving your pennies for when I auction off the right to my authorisation bout. There'll be a queue down the street and around the corner!
